Esperanza Pendant

FROM SKETCH TO CAD

Esperanza Pendant is a contemporary interpretation of the traditional “Evil Eye” motif, a symbol widely recognized across many cultures and often chosen as a meaningful gift. The aim was to reinterpret this familiar form in a distinctive way and give it a unique identity within the brand.

Esperanza

Pendant

To achieve this, a motif already present in the company's logo was selected and developed as a signature design element. Traditionally associated with blue, the nazar was reimagined in a distinctive green tone inspired by the brand's identity.

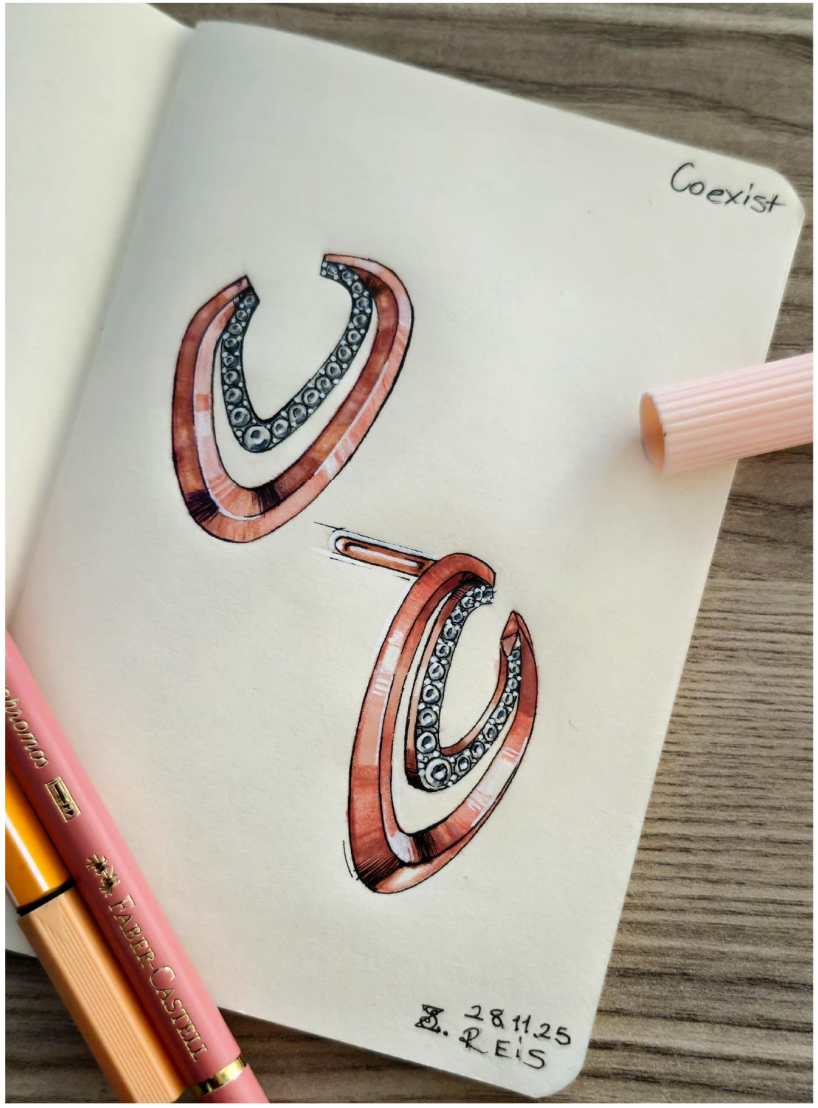

The unexpected use of green gave the company a distinctive identity within the market, while the Esperanza Pendant became one of the brand's signature designs.

Coexist
Earring

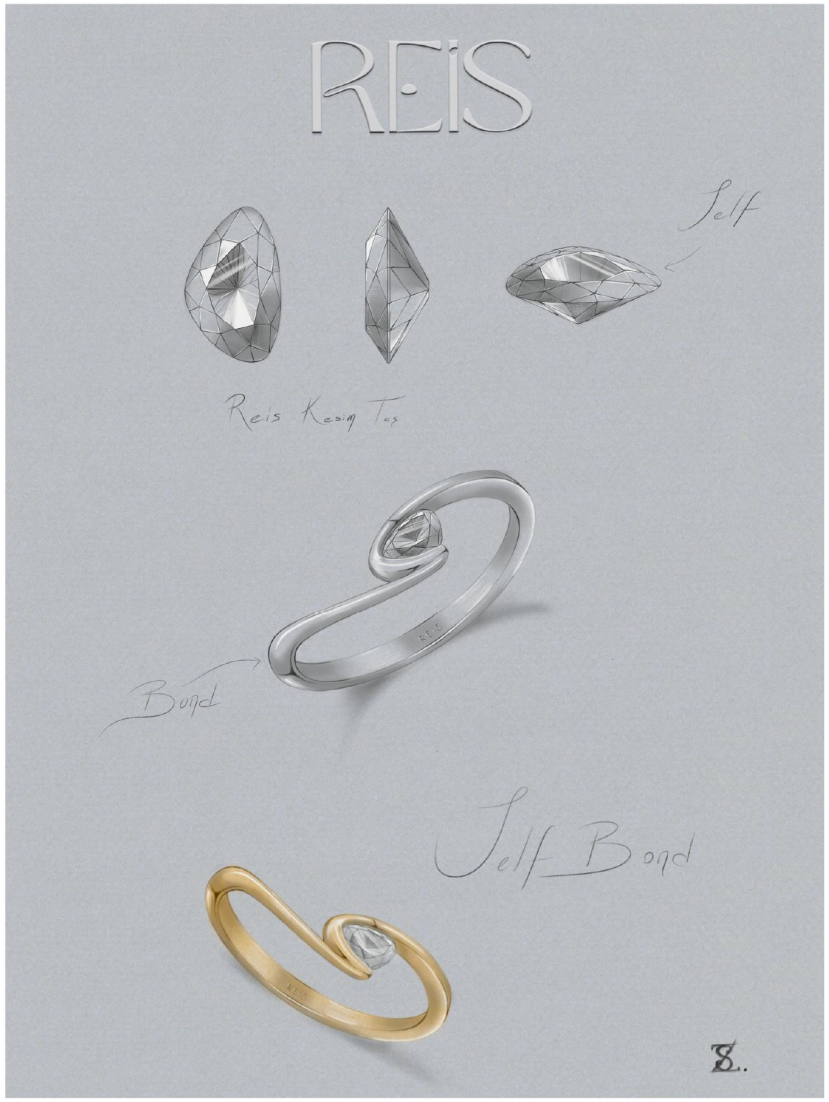

The collection introduces the Reis Form, reinterpreted here as a hoop earring and enriched with diamonds. The design brings two identical forms together, expressing the concept of coexistence through their harmonious relationship.

Self Bond Ring

This solitaire ring was born from the idea of creating a custom-cut diamond based on the brand's signature form. The Ubuntu philosophy — "I am because we are" — is expressed through the concept of self-bond.

At the center, a specially cut diamond unites two lines approaching from opposite directions, symbolizing two becoming one around a shared value.

Path and Track Necklace

This visual was AI-generated based on my original design.

The Path & Track Necklace was created from the brand's signature form and designed around the collection's narrative of paths and traces.

Representing the footprints of the hunter lion, one of the story's central characters, the necklace translates repeated steps into a stylized pattern of filled and empty forms, alternating between diamond-set and plain surfaces.

The Piri Reis World Map

The Piri Reis World Map.

The Piri Reis World Map of 1513 was discovered in 1929. It's a portolan-style world map created when positioning recently discovered places was almost technically impossible. It succeeded in producing a detailed and considerably accurate depiction of the coastline and islands of the newly discovered regions of the world and formed a circular map designed on a hypothetical center with a rich variety of illustrations. It represents the earliest cartographic record of Columbus's oceanic voyages (New World discoveries), is among the earliest work showing Terra Australis (the first map to depict its unique fauna), and stands out with distinction among the maps of the Age of Discoveries.

Waves, stars, and the unknown...

Piri Reis, an Ottoman navigator and cartographer, lived during an age when the seas still held vast territories unknown to contemporary maps. His 1513 world map brought together knowledge from different cartographic sources, depicting coastlines, islands, and newly discovered regions at a remarkable moment in the history of exploration. The “Piri Reis” collection brings the infinite blue of the oceans, the guidance of the compass, and the mystery of the stars into jewelry.

It highlights details that symbolize courage and wisdom: wave-shaped reliefs, compass roses, sapphires reflecting the sky, and engravings inspired by the Piri Reis World Map and celestial charts. Each piece reflects a longing for exploration and the spirit of those who never lose their direction. Just as maps were vital to sailors navigating unfamiliar seas, this collection becomes a guide for modern explorers. These jewels are not just accessories — they are stories.

A legacy of the past, a discovery of the future...

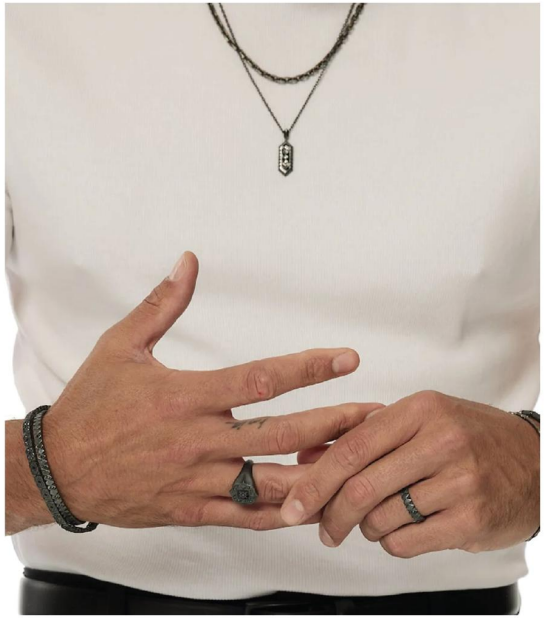

The Compass
Cuffs

Compass and nautical symbols were analyzed to extract key geometric forms. These forms were then developed into repeating patterns across minimal cuff bracelets.
The series combines maritime motifs with a clean, contemporary design approach.

Pendant

The gold design incorporates maritime elements, featuring a detailed section of the map, a compass rose, and sculpted ocean waves. To highlight the sea theme, the piece is finished with blue enamel and accented with blue sapphires. The contrast between the warm gold and the deep blue materials adds a subtle depth to the cartographic details.
